Molotov Given Atomic Agency Post In Vienna

VIENNA (AP)—V. M. Molotov, ousted from the Soviet hierarchy four years ago, was appointed by his government Tuesday as permanent representative on the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna.

The appointment of the Soviet ex-foreign minister came as a surprise to Western diplomats here although there have been indications that the Khrushchev regime long has been trying to find a congenial role for him. Once, Molotov was proposed by Moscow as ambassador to The Hague, but the Dutch turned him down. He has been ambassador to remote Outer Mongolia since 1957.

Vienna will provide his first job in a Western country since he was ousted as a hard-core Stalinist by Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a Kremlin showdown.

The announcement was made public by the agency's American director general, W. Sterling Cole. It said Molotov will succeed Leonid Zamyatin as permanent representative.

Molotov, 70, carried out Stalin's foreign policy during World War II and in the postwar years.

The International Atomic Energy Agency was proposed by President Eisenhower in 1953 as an instrument for East-West exchange of peaceful nuclear ideas. It was set up four years later.

Two Found Shot To Death In Car

BALTIMORE (AP)—The bodies of a man and woman were found Tuesday in a car in a wooded area of Baltimore County. Both were shot in the temple.

Police identified the victims as Robert E. Smith, 26, of Butler and Miss Estelle Jeanette Brown, 22, of Lutherville, both in Baltimore County. Both were Negroes.

Smith was found in the rear seat and Miss Brown in the front. A 25-caliber pistol was near Smith, police said.

Police said it apparently was a case of murder and suicide.

Shake Brings Police

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—Patrolman Edwin P. Lynch Jr. shook the office door of Reliable Finance Co. so hard early Tuesday, to make sure it was locked, that he accidentally set off a burglar alarm and brought a carload of policemen to the scene.

Belgian Sources Say Mali Troops Fight Tribesmen

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo. (AP)—Heavy fighting is reported to have broken out at Albertville in northern Katanga. There were conflicting reports about who was involved but it appeared some were United Nations soldiers from the West African Mali Federation, whose own home government is in Congo-like chaos.

Belgian army and air force sources said Tuesday the fighting was between Mali soldiers and Balubakat tribesmen who oppose Premier Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga province.

The Katanga government, however, blamed the Mali soldiers for the trouble. It said the Mali forces had mutinied and clashed with territorial administrators.

Belgians Defend Depot

(In Brussels a Belgian Defense Ministry spokesman said Belgian soldiers, still in charge of maintaining order in Albertville, have successfully defended the railway station against attacking Congolese. The Brussels report made no mention of U.N. forces being involved in the fighting.)

Direct reports were sketchy. Albertville is some 400 miles north of this Katanga capital and access is difficult.

The U.N. Command refused to confirm or deny the Katanga government report.

Observers here said there was a possibility that Mali soldiers revolted following the split Sunday of the French Sudan and Senegal, which formed the Mali Federation. They said it was possible that Balubakat tribesmen took advantage of the Mali soldiers' revolt to instigate an outbreak.

U. N. Forces Alert

Messages being relayed from Albertville along the Belgian army lines of communication said the Mali soldiers are in a desperate position and are calling for reinforcements.

The U.N. Command here was understood to be ready to rush reinforcements to the trouble spot. The Belgians said Mali soldiers also reported "many dead and wounded" but did not say whether the casualties were their own or Balubakat tribesmen. The Belgian army reports said Mali forces opened fire to protect their own lives.

Eight Approved For U.N. Seats

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Security Council, by a unanimous vote, Tuesday recommended admission of eight newly-independent members of the French Community in Africa as members of the United Nations.

The Council now has recommended 14 applicants, whose approval by the General Assembly this fall would raise the total U.N. membership to 96.

The Council Tuesday approved the applications of Dahomey, Niger, Upper Volta, the Ivory Coast, Republic of the (French) Congo, Chad, Gabon and the Central African Republic.

Approved previously by the Council and awaiting Assembly action were applications of Cameroon, Togo, Mali, Malagasy, Somalia and the Republic of the (Belgian) Congo.

Genius With Words

Broadway Mourns Death Of Oscar Hammerstein II

NEW YORK (AP)—The theatrical world voiced deep sorrow Tuesday at the death of Oscar Hammerstein II—the lyricist whose unforgettable words haunt the hearts of millions.

"His songs will never die. Hammerstein will be remembered as long as people sing."

"With the possible exception of Stephen Foster, he was the most gifted song man America has produced."

So sounded the chorus of tributes here and abroad. Hammerstein, whose genius with words led to one of the most fabulously successful partnerships in the history of musical creation, died of stomach cancer early Tuesday at the age of 65 at his country home in Doylestown, Pa.

Blonde May Be Nation's First Spacewoman

NEW YORK (AP)—A blonde who may become this nation's first spacewoman predicted Tuesday that men and women will make space flights together.

The view was expressed by Gertrude M. (Jerrie) Cobb, 29, Ponca City, Okla., first woman to pass spaceflight tests at the Lovelace Foundation in Albuquerque, N.M.

"Would you object to sharing a space capsule with an astronaut?" asked a male reporter at a news conference.

"No," she replied, without a pause.

Miss Cobb, who has logged 7,500 hours in the air since learning to fly at the age of 12, said "Project Mercury is only to get the first man into space flight."

But after that—

"Eventually, women will fly into space, whether as passengers or pilots," she said. "As far as I'm concerned, I'll be there."

As the forerunner in a 12-woman testing program at Lovelace, Miss Cobb said it followed the male astronaut pattern.

She seemed to feel that women could handle emotional strains as well as men, noting that the testees deliberately tried to get the trainees to "blow up."

"They try to make you angry, asking you about something you don't like and telling you that everyone else likes it," she said. "And pretty soon you get mad—but I didn't."

She was asked whether anything in the tests are frightening or painful.

"Well, perhaps a little," she said. "I've heard many comments that the worst was the neurological examination, where they stick needles in your arms."

Miss Cobb, who has a 36-26-34 figure, said she lost seven pounds during a week of testing but regained them. She stands 5 feet 7 inches and weighs 121 pounds.

She is advertising and sales promotion manager of Aero Design & Engineering Co. Ponca City, maker of Aero Commander planes. She was U.S. aviation's Woman of the Year for 1959.

Nixon Staffer "Pressured" State Dept.

Africa Student Aid Reversal Followed Shepley's Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department acknowledged Tuesday it agreed to provide $100,000 to help 250 African students come to this country within two days after a campaign aide to Vice President Richard M. Nixon requested it.

The aide, James Shepley, in asking for reversal of an earlier decision, said he was calling on Nixon's behalf, the department said.

It added that apparently Nixon was not aware that Sen. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic opponent for the presidency, also was interested in helping the students—although Shepley knew it.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), putting the department's version of the politically entangled affair into the Congressional Record said:

"It is quite clear that the department reversed itself on what it construed to be orders of Mr. Shepley."

Intervened On "Crash Basis"

Fulbright said Shepley entered the picture "on a crash basis" only after it became known that the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation had agreed to put up the money.

"A sorry performance," declared Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I deplore, as strongly as I can, a department that is susceptible to outside pressure," he added. Nixon's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, told a news conference the State Department decision was nonpolitical.

"At the time we were working on it we didn't know the Kennedy Foundation was interested" in the matter, Klein said.

He said he was not sure when Shepley became aware of the Kennedy Foundation's interest. But Nixon, Klein added, has long been interested in providing for exchange students, especially students from Africa and Asia.

GOP Charge Boomerangs

Democrats in the Senate also turned back on Republicans the charge that Kennedy-for-President backers outbid the State Department to help the students for political campaign purposes.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) had raised the charge against Kennedy in the Senate last week, leaving the impression that the Kennedy Foundation wanted to win favor with Negro voters in this country.

Kennedy's defenders Tuesday stressed that the Kennedy Foundation—a memorial to his brother killed in World War II—agreed to pay the cost with the understanding no publicity would be given its participation.

Fulbright said an investigation of the charges against Kennedy might be in order and he asked for a State Department explanation, including Shepley's role.

Shepley is on leave from Time magazine to help with Nixon's campaign.

Economy Stays Near To Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy rolled at close to record levels in midsummer but the prosperity was somewhat spotted.

The Commerce Department supplied the accounting Tuesday. Noting that business activity hit a new high in June, the department said July saw little change in total output, employment and incomes.

However, it added that the "pattern of demand was more mixed than earlier in the year in individual lines of business."

The buying habits of consumers shifted somewhat. For example, the report showed that people have been spending more money for services, about the same for soft goods but less for durable goods—automobiles.

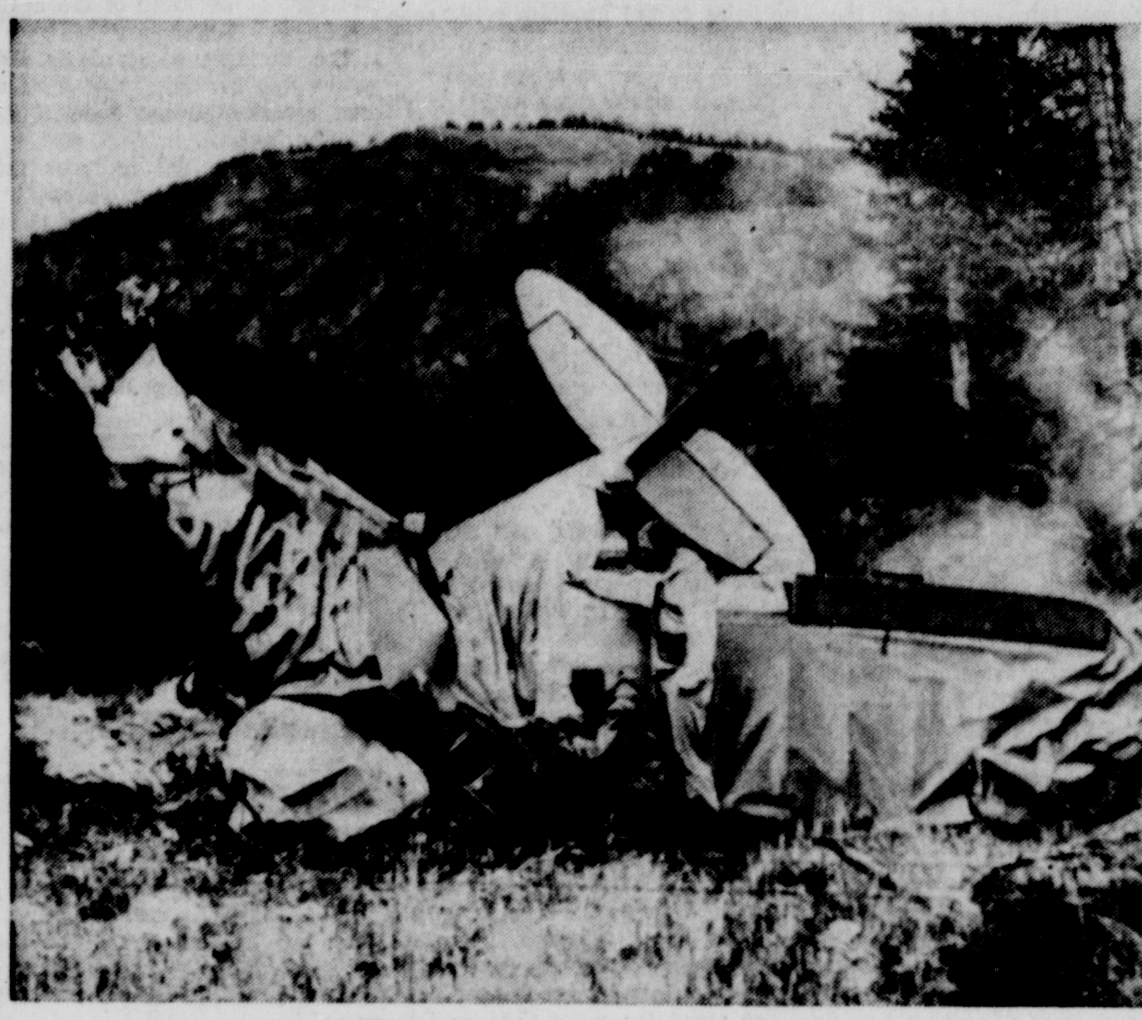

"July sales of new cars were lower than in the same period of last year and were at a seasonally adjusted rate below earlier months of this year," the department said.

On the other hand, consumer income advanced to a record annual rate of 407 billion dollars in July, industrial output held steady at high levels and employment was little changed from the April-June average.

Colombia Hits Cuban Tactics, Defends U.S.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI)—

Colombia Tuesday accused Cuba of trying to divide the Western Hemisphere and of seeking to turn Latin America against the United States.

Latin American foreign ministers attending an emergency meeting worked behind the scenes, meanwhile, to persuade Cuba to try to moderate her foreign policy. The meeting of member nations of the Organization of American States was called to consider the threat of Communist infiltration in the Western Hemisphere.

The blistering charge that Cuba was trying to weaken and destroy continental solidarity and seeking to turn Western Hemisphere nations against Washington was made by Colombia's Foreign Minister Julio Turbay. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter was expected to speak on Wednesday.

Turbay, calling on Cuba to submit to the "discipline" of the inter-American system, said to the conflict is between America and the Soviet Union—"between democracy and communism."

He said the current threats to hemispheric solidarity stemmed principally from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's threats to use rockets against the United States if it attacks Cuba and Cuba's acceptance of the offer.

He proposed settling differences between the two nations by a five-nation committee.

The speeches by other foreign ministers, Peru's Raul Porras and Mexico's Manuel Tello, were more moderate.

There were indications that Cuba, as yet unlisted among Wednesday's speakers, was reversing her aggressive attitude of last week, as the United States' position reportedly was hardening.

Herter was planning to deliver a stinging indictment against Cuba, accusing it of allowing Russia to use it as a pawn to divide Latin America against Washington, according to U. S. officials.

PRR Strike Certain, Union Leader Says

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of 25,000 maintenance workers against the Pennsylvania Railroad at 12:01 Sept. 1 was called a certainty Tuesday by Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union.

The strike time was set last Thursday. Quill's statement was made at a news conference after a meeting of the union's council of presidents of 46 locals on the Pennsylvania, and its international officers.

The TWU president said he believed all other unions on the road would respect TWU picket lines.

Ike To Make His First Campaign Speech Sept. 29

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make his first political speech of the 1960 campaign in Chicago the night of Sept. 29, the White House announced Tuesday.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower will speak at a Republican fund-raising dinner, and that his speech will be carried by closed circuit television to a series of similar dinners throughout the country.

Hagerty said Eisenhower has no plans for any political speech in advance of the Chicago dinner, but that he will make others before the end of the campaign.

Republican orators at other dinners Sept. 29 are expected to include Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the presidential nominee, and his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Transit Strike Ends At Boston

BOSTON (AP)—A strike that tied up Greater Boston's rapid transit system for 24 hours and inconvenienced thousands of commuters ended late Tuesday.

Gov. Foster Furcolo announced the settlement after a day-long conference with members of his Executive Council and representatives of the Metropolitan Transit Authority and the union. The authority supervises operation of the system.

Announcement of the settlement brought joy to tens of thousands who had resorted to walking, hitchhiking, car pools and cabs in efforts to get to and from their places of employment during the brief strike.

The MTA claimed the strike was called over a driver's refusal to work two minutes overtime. This was disputed by representatives of the Street Railway and Motor Coach Employees Union, AFL-CIO. The underlying cause of the dispute, however, was over arbitration of a new contract. The old contract expired last December 31.

The terms of the settlement involved the appointment of a neutral member of an arbitration board.

Tearful Farewell

Powers Tells His Wife He'll Be 'Model Prisoner'

MOSCOW (UPI)—American U-2 pilot Francis Powers promised his wife Barbara during a tearful farewell Tuesday he would be a "model prisoner in every way" in the hope his 10-year espionage sentence would be reduced.

Frank Rogers, Barbara's American attorney, told a news conference the pilot also told his wife he will "try to learn to speak Russian" during his confinement.

Powers held separate and tearful reunions with his parents and then with Barbara—perhaps the last for many years. All are returning to the United States this week.

Oliver and Ida Powers, the father and mother, visited the 31-year-old pilot in his jail cell behavior.

DeGaulle, Mali Secessionist Leader Confer

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle talked Tuesday with Senegal's Premier Mamadou Dia in efforts to patch up the quarrel that has broken up the Mali Federation of Senegal and the old French Sudan.

One of De Gaulle's aims is to forestall a drift by the Sudanese toward neutralism or anti-French ties.

Dia came to Paris in response to De Gaulle's offer of mediation in the dispute between the two former colonies.

The Senegalese leader made it clear before seeing De Gaulle that Senegal's break with the federation as such is final. He seemed ready, however, for new links with Sudan.

But Sudanese Premier Modibo Keita warned in a telegram to De Gaulle that, if the French President recognized the "secession" of Senegal, "this could have extremely grave consequences internationally."

Although he did not spell it out, competent sources said they felt Keita was threatening to break with the French community and forge an association with Guinea, another former French colony.

Guinea's Marxist-leaning president, Sekou Toure, broke with Paris in 1958 and since has been flirting with Moscow and Peking.

Keita said he wasn't able to see De Gaulle for the present.

Lets Son Drive

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Alan Marsh, who was fined $20 Monday for letting his 12-year-old son drive the family Jaguar, denied Tuesday that there was anything "irresponsible" about his offense.

"I was teaching him to drive," he said. "I believe good driving is a conditioned reflex, and if taught at an early age will insure that a driver reacts to any emergency promptly and well."

Scaled-Down Medical Care Bill Passed

Rival Demo, GOP Proposals Backed By Nominees Lose

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Tuesday night passed a bill increasing federal grants for medical bills of the needy aged after rejecting Democratic and Republican attempts to broaden aid to nearly all old persons.

The measure, which includes a number of liberalizations in the Social Security law, now goes back to the House for consideration of the Senate changes.

The most dramatic vote on the measure came a couple of hours before passage in the 51-44 defeat of a Democratic proposal to write a medical care program into the Social Security system.

This was a heavy blow to Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, who joined in an all-out fight for that approach to the problem.

However, the Massachusetts senator made it clear he would take his case for a Social Security plan to the people in the national campaign this fall.

Also beaten during the day was a Republican health insurance protection plan for the elderly backed by that party's presidential choice, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. It lost 67-28 with not one Democrat supporting it.

Committee Plan Wins 91-2

The basic bill for medical aid to the needy was approved 91-2. Sens. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) and Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) cast the only two dissents.

Included in the bill as it cleared the Senate was a plan worked out in the Senate Finance Committee to boost federal grants to states to help pay medical expenses of persons on the public assistance relief rolls.

Aid also would be available under this program for persons with incomes high enough to keep off relief but too low to enable them to pay medical bills.

The estimated federal cost of this was 200 million dollars a year as it came from the committee. It had been accepted by the Eisenhower administration although in the past the President had frowned on boosts in federal grants under the public assistance program.

However, Tuesday night the Senate voted 51-38 to widen the scope of this provision to include expenses of the mentally ill and tuberculosis patients. Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.), chief sponsor, of the original provision, said he feared this would mean a veto.

Sharp Setback For Kennedy

This change added about 120 million dollars to the 200 million of the original plan. The broader coverage was proposed by Sens. Russell B. Long (D-La.) and George A. Smathers (D-Fla.).

The 51-44 setback for the Democratic attempt to apply medical aid to Social Security beneficiaries was a sharp reversal for Kennedy and his running-mate, Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.). They have been expected to make Social Security health benefits a major campaign issue.

The dramatic roll call came shortly after Kennedy had raised the vote to even higher importance by declaring it to be a test of whether Congress could pass any progressive legislation in this abbreviated session.

If the Social Security proposal failed, he suggested, the legislators might as well go home and let the party standard bearers take the issues to the people this fall.

The vote was a victory for President Eisenhower who repeatedly has said he would not approve legislation linking a medical care program to Social Security.

The likelihood of a veto was a factor in the outcome. Several senators said the Social Security approach to the problem could be considered later but that it was obvious it could not be written (Continued on page 2 col. 3)

The 67-28 vote by which the Senate defeated the Republican-backed medical care program for the aged offered by Sen. Jacob K. Javits included:

Republicans for: Beall of Maryland.

Potsdam Conferees Haggled Over Reds In Liberated Nations

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Big Three foreign ministers—United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union—haggled daily at the 1945 Potsdam Conference over Communist activities in several liberated European countries, it was reported Tuesday.

Newly published reports of secret state papers said that U.S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden argued vainly with V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, over Red infiltration of Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia, Italy, Greece and Poland.

The Des Moines Register and the Minneapolis Tribune, in the last of four copyright articles described as being based on hitherto undisclosed official papers of the July 17-Aug. 2 conference outside of Berlin, said:

The conference "marked the end of America's illusion that a peaceful world could be rebuilt from the wreckage of World War II."

Md. State Fair Opens Monday

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP)—The annual parade of livestock, ponies, draft horses and home arts demonstrations will begin Monday, opening day of the Maryland State Fair.

As usual, there will be the selection of a state farm queen on opening day, racing on the half-mile track, night shows, a draft horse pulling contest — and probably innumerable swollen feet.

The farm queen will be selected from among the top farm beauties selected in the 23 counties of the state. The queen will reign over the various events at the fair during the succeeding two weeks. The fair will close Sept. 10.

The first seven days will be set aside for the youngsters who belong to various 4-H clubs. They will display cattle, sheep, swine, ponies, canning, clothing and baking and will compete in tractor-pulling and egg-grading contests.

The farm queen will be formally crowned Sept. 4, at the start of the week of opening judging competition.

Referring to the 4-H activities, Daniel B. Brewster, president of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, said:

"We emphasize farm youth since these boys and girls will become the backbone of the future in Maryland's giant farm industry."

State Dept. Acts To Plug Secret Paper "Leaks"

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department Tuesday suspended its practice of allowing authors to see secret historical state papers in advance of their formal publication next year.

The action came on the heels of publication by the Minneapolis Tribune and the Des Moines Register & Tribune of a series of articles on the Potsdam conference.

The department at the same time declined to make public yet the documents compiled by its historians concerning the 1945 conference at Potsdam, Germany, of President Truman, British Prime Minister Winston S. Churchill and Soviet Premier Joseph V. Stalin.

It said further work needed on the preparation of the documents would make it impossible to publish them until early in 1961.

Department officials said privately they had "goofed" in allowing access to the papers to some newsmen in advance of formal publication.

They said that it was probably through an honest misunderstanding that writers Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey used the Potsdam documents for the series of copyrighted articles in Cowles newspapers of Minneapolis and Des Moines. They did not attribute bad faith or violation of an agreement to the newsmen.

Here is the State Department's explanation: Scholars in the past have been allowed to look at documentary material while it was being prepared for publication. Normally, the books written by the scholars as a result have been published at about the same time or later than the formal publication of the documents.

This same procedure was followed with the Potsdam papers. Dr. Herbert Feis sought and got permission to see the papers in writing his recently published book, "War and Peace: The Potsdam Conference."

Knebel and Bailey last December were granted similar permission, and their ensuing book, "No High Ground," was published this spring. It dealt with the atomic bombing of Japan.

State Department officials said they had not anticipated, however, that Knebel and Bailey would use material from the Potsdam documents for newspaper articles.

Only one Republican, Sen. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, voted for the Social Security plan. Forty-three Democrats supported it. Opposed were 19 Democrats, mostly Southerners, and 32 Republicans.

As the roll call proceeded, Nixon sat briefly in a Senate seat. Then the vice president got up and looked over the shoulder of Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) as the latter kept tabs on the tally.

Kennedy, in his back rear seat, threw his pencil down on his desk in disgust as the result became apparent.

New State Yacht Strikes Piling, Damaging Engine

Legislators Cruise Ends Abruptly

NORTH EAST, Md. (AP)—The first cruise by Maryland legislators aboard the new state yacht "Sea Level" ended abruptly Tuesday. The vessel struck a piling and damaged an engine and possibly a propeller.

There was no immediate word of whether the lawmakers would continue at least part of their upper Chesapeake Bay tour by car. None of the legislators was aboard the boat at the time of the accident.

The accident occurred as the yacht was backing away from a pier at the Wellwood Yacht Club at Charlestown, in Cecil County. Extent of the damage was not known but Capt. John Conway indicated the boat would have to be towed to Baltimore for repairs.

The yacht was leaving Charlestown enroute to Port Deposit, where it was scheduled to pick up the members of the Legislative Council who were making the three-day cruise.

The lawmakers learned of the accident while travelling from the new North East State Police barracks to the Elk Neck State Park, part of the tour.

Baggage belonging to the 16 legislators remained on the yacht. Conway said it appeared unlikely the "Sea Level" could continue

County Board Gets Water Complaint

Anna Lashley, Calla Hill, Mt. Savage, wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday that the surface water from ditches which have been filled in near her home is damaging her property.

The matter was referred to Harry Skelly, roads supervisor for investigation.

City Water Use Up

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 108,330,000 gallons compared to 90,400,000 the same period a year ago. The water level in Lake Gordon is one foot three inches below the crest of the spillway and in Lake Koon two feet one inch below, Ray Nixon, acting water superintendent, reported to the Mayor and Council.

Board Given State Funds Share Data

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has received a letter from C. L. Wannan, comptroller for the State Roads Commission, listing the funds which the county will receive from gasoline taxes and motor vehicle revenue during the current fiscal year.

Wannan said the county can expect an estimated $441,020.82 from the two sources. The gasoline tax will be $367,789.39 while the motor vehicle fees will amount to $73,239.43.

For the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1960 the county realized $356,085.36 from gasoline taxes and $77,317.62 for motor vehicle fees. The total last fiscal year was $433,402.98.

Wannan stated the SRC will deduct $7,935.16 in debt service and $17,745.11 next March for the same purpose.

The money will be received by the county in sums ranging from $32,018.69 to $68,668.19 on a monthly basis throughout the fiscal year, Wannan stated.

The money is used in maintenance and construction of roads in Allegany County. Commissioner John J. Rowan said only roads which are in the bona fide roads system can be worked with the state funds under law.

Potomac Cleanup Meet Set

State Senators from Allegany and Garrett counties will resume their work on a special Legislative Council committee on Potomac River cleanup when they meet in the Washington area Thursday and Friday.

State Sen. Charles M. See of this county said the committee headed by Del. Hervey Machin (D-Prince Georges) will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. in the headquarters of the Maryland-National Capitol Parks Planning Commission in Silver Spring.

Problems of the river in that section will be reviewed with a representative of the State Department of Health.

Sen. See said he and Sen. Bernard I. Gonder of Garrett County, the only two legislators from that end of the state on the committee, will be with the group Friday when it visits two municipal water plants in the Washington section.

In the morning they will check the Patuxent Water Supply Plant of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission and in the afternoon, the commission's Watts Branch Water Plant above Washington.

The committee was set up by resolution of the General Assembly and a number of meetings have been held, including some with the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

Union Against Endorsement Of Two Candidates

The Western Maryland Central Labor Council Monday voted against endorsement of either Rep. John R. Foley or Charles McC. Mathias, his Republican opponent.

Action on the matter followed a pre-meeting session with Mathias by the council.

The AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education met last week and decided to recommend Rep. Foley. The ruling body of the various unions Monday acted on the recommendation and voted against the endorsement.

The various labor councils throughout the state will submit their recommendations later at a state meeting and the final say will be by the entire AFL-CIO body in Maryland.

Rep. Foley was elected two years ago by defeating incumbent DeWitt Hyde, a Republican. He has had labor support in both his tries for the House seat he won two years ago.

W. Va. Police Arrive To Return Cyclist

West Virginia Police have arrived in Sidney, Neb., to bring Annapolis cyclist Robert Hall back to West Virginia where he is wanted on a charge of grand larceny.

Jack Towler, a Cumberland hotel owner, who offered to finance the trip, said he did it to promote Boy Scout merit badge projects.

Hall, who said the grand larceny charge is a "mixup," is being held in connection with taking some guns from his step-father.

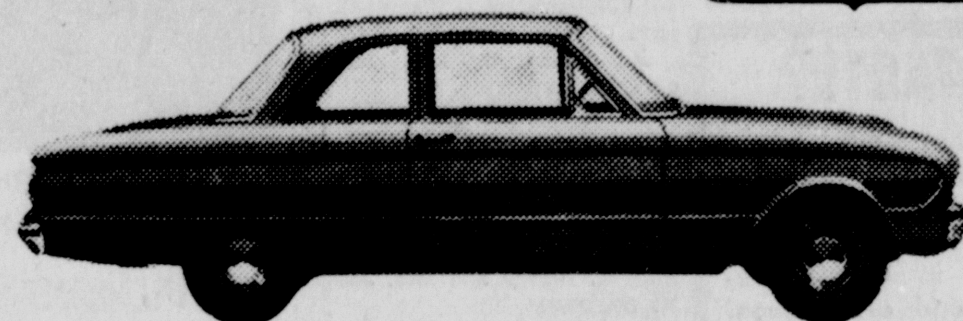

Towler, who met Hall in Cumberland when he went through here on Route 40 several weeks ago, had agreed to finance the rest of the trip.

He said "In the past few years there's been a great decline in Boy Scouts seeking the cycling merit badge.

"By underwriting Bob Hall's trip to Alaska, I saw a possibility of arousing an interest in more boys' seeking this particular badge.

"Since this idea has fallen through, there are still other methods that we can use to stimulate their interest in cycling," he concluded.

Rowan Gives Report On Water Damage

Commissioner John J. Rowan reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on a complaint concerning surface water damage.

W. A. Strother, Trost Avenue, last week complained that water running from a roadway at the edge of the city limits was running onto his property.

Rowan told the board that the road in question is not in the county system and the water problem is not the responsibility of the board.

Parking Receipts Down

Parking meter receipts the week of August 14 amounted to $804.80 compared to $806.88 the week of August 7, a decrease of $2.08, according to inspector Harry Whisner in a report to the Mayor and Council.

Stone Supply Is Purchased

Allegany County has contracted to purchase 4,700 tons of crushed stone from the Frye Stone Company at Hancock for $1.95 per ton delivered to the Little Orleans Road job site.

Commissioner John J. Rowan and Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, Monday made the arrangements. Rowan said the price per ton is 30 cents less than that offered several weeks ago when a number of bids were received and later rejected.

Rowan also said the county will not have to use its own trucks and this will result in a saving of 40 cents per mile for each truck if the county hauled its own stone.

The commissioner said the decision was made to seek the lowest price possible in areas where there are quarries and thereby save the county quite a bit of money. The saving on the transaction made yesterday will be $1,410, Rowan pointed out.

The commissioners today signed the contract with the Joseph Graciano Company of Pittsburgh to clean, repoint and repair the exterior of the Court House. The work will cost $14,200 and will be started within a week.

The contractor has agreed to complete the work on the building where the Circuit Court room is located so as not to interfere with the sessions.

Police Arrest Four Youths

Four youths from the State Forestry Camp at Green Ridge are back in "dutch" with the law.

The youths Monday were questioned in the State's Attorney's Office concerning a series of breaking and enterings in the Flintstone area.

Trooper J. W. McFarland of the Maryland State Police picked up the youths in connection with three breaking and enterings which occurred during the last of July and the early part of this month.

Authorities said the four had escaped from the training camp and broken into the cabins. Although they didn't obtain much money, they did cause considerable property damage to the cabins, police said.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said the state will obtain waivers from Juvenile Court on two of the youths and give them hearings in Circuit Court, while the other two will be tried as delinquent minors.

Truck Bids Sought

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light was authorized by the Mayor and Council Monday to advertise for bids on two, four-door sedans and one half ton pickup truck for the Water Department.

Blue Cross Deductible Plan Seen Popular

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland Blue Cross officials predicted Tuesday a "significant portion" of its 1,043,000 subscribers would be interested in the new optional deductible contract.

The contract, permitting subscribers to pay the first 50 dollars of hospital costs for two or more days of care, was approved Monday by State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears.

Sears also approved rate increases averaging 17.9 per cent and higher premiums of up to 33.4 per cent for Blue Shield medical insurance.

For his willingness to pay part of the hospital costs himself, the Blue Cross subscriber under the deductible contract would pay a rate comparable to current general premiums.

Higher premiums for both non-profit insurance plans becomes effective Oct. 1.

A spokesman for Blue Cross said as many as 10 to 15 per cent of subscribers are expected to indicate interest in shifting to the deductible plan. He said a study is under way to determine a more feasible way of putting the deductible plan into operation.

The new plan will not apply to maternity cases or those mental or nervous disorders requiring treatment in a special institution.

The new Blue Cross rate increase was the third approved in the last three years. Blue Shield rates have been stable since 1956.

A legislative committee headed by Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot) will meet Thursday to hear recommendations from doctors on how to curb alleged abuse of hospital facilities.

The controversy over spiraling hospital costs figured prominently in recent hearings on the Blue Cross rate increase.

Fund Safeguards Wait For Politics

No hope is held out in the present session of Congress for legislation designed to tighten safeguards over $30 billion in welfare and pension funds.

More than 850,000 workers and members of their families are beneficiaries of various union or company plans, the holdings of which are increasing by an estimated $4 billion a year.

The law now on the statute books, designed to safeguard the money in these funds against fraud, was inadequate when enacted in 1958. The legislation came after 1957-58 labor racket investigations had disclosed many welfare fund frauds. One had amounted to a million dollars.

Now, Secretary of Labor Mitchell warns that "to continue the law in its present form in the belief that it assures adequate safeguards is a shameful illusion."

The Labor Department has not been able to cope with most of the abuses Congress sought to wipe out. It lacks authority to compel full and honest reports from custodians of these funds. It is not empowered to conduct investigations.

And it lacks authority to prosecute violators under the act. Hence, any suggestions it makes can be ignored with impunity.

This is the situation which legislation now in Congress is designed to correct. Unfortunately, it is a situation that is destined to continue until another Congress is seated. Lawmakers who have the corrective measures in their hands now have other matters on their minds—the election, for instance.

More than 850,000 people can go on hoping vainly for better protection until after the 1960 politicking is over, or longer.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is A Celebrity?

I see that the Republicans and Democrats are going in for celebrities. On one side is the distinguished former pugilist from the Jersey side of the Hudson River, Frank Sinatra; on the other side, the distinguished hooter, speaker and public relations counsel, George Murphy. Among the celebrities are such persons as Dore Schary, Helen Hayes and Ward Bond, but I have not seen Zsa Zsa Gabor on any of these lists nor Marilyn Monroe. They may be neutral or perhaps they belong to splinter parties.

I have often wondered what a celebrity is. There are in this world great men like Winston Churchill or Herbert Hoover; there are good men like Dr. Albert Schweitzer or Dr. Thomas Dooley; there are learned men such as Lord Russell or Dr. James Bryant Conant; but what is a celebrity?

The word would give the impression that it has something to do with being celebrated. But that is ambiguous. It could mean distinguished, renowned, famous or eminent. It might be used for President Eisenhower or for Queen Elizabeth II or Pope John XXIII. It can never mean notorious. It could not refer, for instance, to a person who is the repository of four divorces and a fifth one pending. The proper term for that would be notorious. Nor could it refer to an alcoholic or a lady of the night. The term for the latter is unmentionable. It could not refer to the obscure, the illicit, the trivial.

And yet the word, celebrity, has, in our flexible language, come to have a special meaning. In common parlance, it is someone who belongs to the theater or the motion picture or television industries whose names appear in newspapers often. It is a coined term, like the word, socialite, which refers to a person who is often gossiped about in the gossip columns. Often such persons are noted as eating in restaurants, which is quite natural since they are rarely invited to homes even among their own kind. A socialite may be a gentleman or a bum; he may have money or be a sponger. His sole requirement is to be available to escort a woman; he must have the accoutrements that go with both a black and a white tie.

The nature of the socialite is quite definable, but not that of the celebrity. The socialite is established by head waiters. The deciding factor is what kind of a table such a person is shown to at the Stork Club, the Colony Restaurant, Le Pavillon and 21. The celebrity also usually gets a good table when he or she is in the news. However, the celebrity of yesterday is just a poor fish who once had clippings to paste into a scrapbook. Some few of them survive by going into other trades. Jimmy Walker, for instance, wrote one song and became a celebrity, but he did not last at it; he went in for politics and became Mayor of New York.

Very few so-called celebrities are politicians or could pass a simple examination in civics. Dore Schary is a Democratic politician of the liberal persuasion who tried to make Adlai Stevenson the Democratic candidate for President. At any rate, besides being a celebrity, he is also a politician and even makes speeches. My pal, Ward Bond, is strictly political in his outlook on life. He had led the fight against Communism in Hollywood with great courage and perspicacity. Adolphe Menjou, the linguist, is a student of political institutions. Apart from being a celebrity, he is a man who adheres to political principles and fights for them. On the Leftist side there are quite a few politically-conscious persons among the celebrities. Some have even had problems with the FBI.

But these aggregations of celebrities led by one side by Frank Sinatra and on the other by George Murphy are, on the whole, folks who live in the world of make believe, who are accustomed to having their thinking done for them by producers, directors, agents and managers.

How many votes the celebrities will bring to each candidate, it is difficult to know. I have often wondered how many votes Lauren Bacall made for Harry Truman when she sat on top of an upright piano, dangling her legs, while Harry, still a Vice President, played the piano for the photographers. It could be a gimmick.

'Just To Keep Herterr From Getting Ideas'

Gallup's First Post-Convention Poll Criticized

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

In the newspaper trade, it is usually considered bad form for one wretched scribbler to make remarks in print about the work of another. Yet an exception seems to be justified in the case of the inquiring Dr. George Gallup's important first poll after the national conventions. What is left out needs to be put back in.

The political community was both excited and amazed by this poll, showing 50 per cent of the "decided" voters choosing Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, 44 per cent of the "decided" choosing Sen. John F. Kennedy, and 6 per cent of the undecided. Nixon's lead caused the excitement. The almost incredibly low percentage of undecided voters caused the amazement.

But the voters so positively described as "decided" by Dr. Gallup were by no means unanimously decided in the true sense of that word. In the total sample, 6 per cent of the pollsters specifically stated they were undecided about their votes, but later admitted or indicated that they were leaning to one candidate or another. These "leaners"—a familiar phenomenon to every doorbell ringer—were somewhat oddly lumped in with the truly "decided" in the published poll.

According to Paul Perry, chief statistician of the Gallup organization, this undisclosed disposition of the "leaners" benefitted the Democrats. He said that the Kennedy-Johnson ticket got "approximately 54 per cent of all the leaners."

The Democrats rather conspicuously failed to benefit, however, by two other unseen dispositions made by Dr. Gallup and his staff. The first and most remarkable was the simple cancellation of about 20 per cent of all the ballots collected by Dr. Gallup's field workers.

Apparently this winnowing of goats from sheep is standard Gallup practice. Suspected non-voters are spotted by such indicators as failure to vote last time, failure to register thus far, and so on. The suspected ballots are then thrown out of the sample—which is the other half of the secret of Dr. Gallup's amazingly low percentage of undecided voters.

Statistician Perry stated that he "did not have" the actual split of the suspects thrown out of the recently published poll; but he added that the discarded ballots were "regularly more Democratic." In addition, important numbers of Democratic votes were apparently light-weighted by Dr. Gallup's special system of synthesizing his national percentage figures.

Like the throw-out of suspected non-voters, this synthetic character of Dr. Gallup's published national percentages may well be known to sociologists and other students. Statistician Perry made no bones about it, when questioned. But it is certainly unknown in the political community, where the Gallup results are therefore misunderstood.

Briefly, then, every Gallup Poll is divided into four regions, Eastern, Mid-Western, Southern, and Western. Voting habits in the regions differ. The aim is to forecast, not the victor in the election, but the popular vote. Thus the polling samples from each region are given a "weight," proportional to that region's contribution to the popular vote in 1956. The national averages are then synthesized from the weighted samples.

The region that suffers from this system is the South, where the popular vote is always low in national elections. The thirteen states in Dr. Gallup's Southern Region have just under a quarter of the population of the United States. More important, they have 27.2 per cent of the Electoral College votes, which decide the presidential choice. But in Dr. Gallup's percentage synthesis, the 1956 yardstick gave the South a "weight" of only 16.6 per cent. Thus every Southerner in Dr. Gallup's recent sample got only about three-fifths of a vote in the final count.

Although Dr. Gallup secretly publishes regional breakdown, he is not doing so this time. Hence statistician Perry refused to dis-

CIVIL RIGHTS—The effort by some Republicans in the Senate to embarrass the Democratic leadership on the civil rights issue apparently isn't getting any place.

Senator Kenneth Keating and Senator Jacob Javits, New York Republicans, have introduced the Democratic Party's civil rights plank as legislation. They hope for some Democratic sponsorship with a view to proving that the donkey party's plank is all words and no action. They know that their bill has no chance of enactment and that it will provoke Southern Democratic Senators to filibuster, which would tie up the short session completely.

Some wise heads in the GOP, including President Eisenhower himself, are opposed to this kind of political baiting. They know that if the Republican party puts itself into this kind of an obstructionist position, the Senate will be unable to act on some urgent and publicly appealing legislation.

They don't want to go into the political campaigns having to explain why they chose to tie Congress up in knots instead of co-operating to pass such needed measures as a higher minimum wage bill, a housing bill, medical care for the aged, and federal funds to assist school construction.

However, Keating and Javits are hard to control on the civil rights issue. They represent a state having a huge Negro voting bloc and they must appear in the van on the civil rights question. Both wanted a stronger civil rights plank than was adopted at their own party's convention in Chicago.

The New Yorkers have been accused of taking their stand to cover up their own party's "softness" on the issue. This they deny, but they fear that the Negro voting bloc might feel they have been let down by the GOP on the issue.

Pentagon Chiefs Give Russia Edge Over United States In Strength

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is out of Washington briefly, his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—The space display Uncle Sam has put up lately, climaxed by the spectacular catch of the Discoverer capsule high in the clouds, has been exceeded only by the political claims and counterclaims that have been launched into orbit by sheer lung-power.

If all the competing voices haven't been bounced back from space as President Eisenhower's, they have at least ricocheted off the Senate ceiling.

To the bewildered, bedazzled public, the defense controversy must seem like a Cape Canaveral of conflicting contentions. This column has asked joint chiefs of staff members, both present and past, to help clear up the confusion. Here are their answers to some basic questions:

Do our latest triumphs put us ahead of Russia in the space race? Not yet. Our Air Force brought the first satellite down safely from orbit, snagged the second dramatically out of the sky as it drifted down from space. But this was surpassed by the return from orbit of Russia's five-ton, menagerie-carrying satellite which was closer to a real spaceship than anything we can send aloft. Russia still has superior rocket power and is expected to launch the first men into orbit.

Did the Eisenhower administration deliberately stage these space spectacles before the election to influence the voters? No, the timetable was determined more by technological than political factors.

Were Funds Frozen?

Did President Eisenhower impound funds that Congress voted for defense? Congress appropriated $1,413,800,000 more than the President asked for military hardware, but trimmed other defense projects by $945,800,000. This left $468,000,000 extra which Ike threatened to impound. Except for dribbles, most of this money was frozen until the political clamor broke the ice jam.

Which country has superior military strength? Russia has 175 army divisions to our 14, 20,000 combat planes to our 13,000, 600 submarine to our 113, 110 missile-firing subs to our five, 30 to 50 operational ICBM's to our seven, 750 operational intermediate-range missiles to our 60. Russia has fewer surface ships, no aircraft carriers. The United States is also ahead in developing atomic submarines, including the first Polaris subs which will soon join the undersea fleet. Secret Pentagon charts, comparing Russian vs. American strength, give Russia the edge.

Are the Democrats or Republicans to blame for our missile lag? The order killing Project MX-774, forerunner of our intercontinental ballistic missiles, was issued on July 1, 1947, when Harry Truman was President. But it was signed by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, then army chief. Both Truman and Eisenhower acted upon the advice of military experts who believed our missile money would be better spent developing winged rather than ballistic missiles. This unfortunate decision delayed our ICBM development nine agonizing years.

Budget First?

Who finally put our missile program back on the launching pad? Because ICBM's couldn't be depended upon to score direct hits 5,000 miles away, our military chiefs generally discounted them until the first H-bomb explosion in November, 1952. This demonstrated dramatically that a near miss could still wipe out a target.

In 1953, Trevor Gardner, then assistant Secretary of the Air Force, was assigned to review our missile program for possible budget savings. Instead he concluded that the missile program needed more money, that the Russians were already dangerously ahead. He persuaded President Eisenhower in 1954 to give top priorities to missiles. But he finally resigned in protest, because he believed the administration was still putting the budget first.

Does Ike really know more than anyone else about defense? To answer Democratic criticism, the Republicans claim that Ike knows best, that his military judgment is supreme. They have draped the aura of military hero over him like a bulletproof garment which may be wearing thin but still deflects criticism.

"Only the President has all the defense facts," declared the Republican National Committee in a political bulletin.

"Trust Ike"—Ike himself boasted at a press conference: "I've spent my life in this (defense), and I know more about it than almost anybody, I think, in the country."

Yet Ike's military judgment has been challenged repeatedly by generals with credentials as impressive as his own. Such field commanders as British Marshals Montgomery and Alanbrooke have charged that Ike's decisions dragged out the war in Europe an extra year. Friends of the late Gen. George Patton say his diary blames Ike's "bungling" for the disastrous Battle of the Bulge. Sir Winston Churchill in his memoirs pins the responsibility on Ike for holding up the allied advance so the Russians could occupy Berlin, a mistake that has now come back to haunt him.

Ike's own statements prove that his military judgment has not always been infallible.

On the eve of the Korean War, he testified before the Senate Appropriations Committee: "All our concern about preparation for war is built around our convictions as to the imminence of war. Now if we had any conviction that war is imminent, then we would be talking in terms of crisis, which is not the way we are talking today. We do not believe that war is imminent."

Ike Was Wrong

Ike delivered this bland assurance on March 29, 1950. Three months later the Communists struck in Korea.

The Senate Appropriations Committee was so influenced by his testimony that Senators called this pre-Korean War budget the "Eisenhower Budget."

In more recent times, Ike declared to the press on Oct. 9, 1957, that the Soviet Sputnik did not trouble him "one iota."

On Aug. 27, 1958, he denied the "possibility of (missile) gap occurring." Two months later, he admitted a "so-called missile gap" existed but insisted "it is being rapidly filled."

Yet most experts agree with his own scientific adviser, Dr. George Kistiakowsky, who warned that we are engaged "in a technological contest with the Soviet Union which today involves our national prestige and tomorrow, perhaps, our very survival." (Copyright 1960, By The Bell Syndicate.)

"What kind of a town do you live in?"

This seems to be of enormous interest to readers everywhere. So many ask: "Where is it?" "What is it like?" Mine is a small place called Sea Bright, New Jersey. Population: 1,023. It is one of the most naturally beautiful resorts I have ever seen.

There is a finger of land running north and south on the edge of the Atlantic Ocean. It is called Sandy Hook. It guards the southern approach to New York harbor. Twenty-five miles north by water (48 by land) is Manhattan. On the second knuckle of this finger is Sea Bright. On the first knuckle is Fort Hancock.

On one side of it is the sea. Behind it is the swift-running Shrewsbury River. Sea Bright is so narrow that, for most of its four-mile length, it has but one street. Ocean Avenue, what else? There is an 11-foot-high stone wall along the sand dunes. This keeps the sea out when the tides are high and the wind and the moon are in phase.

The other side of the road is dotted with homes. Most of them are big and were built by the rich in the early part of the century. They have sweeping porches and they sit fat and old, facing whatever the sea has to offer, picking up the dawn rays of the sun in their blind windows.

The village is about four feet above sea level. Long ago, the Indians called it Nauvoo, which means bright sea. After the Battle of Monmouth, the British retreated this way and fled on ships anchored in Sandy Hook Bay. One of their sloops foundered in a storm. It had 100,000 pounds sterling aboard and, in the 1930's, a little girl digging in the sand came up with six gold coins in the image of George III.

In 1870, Swedish fishermen began to use Sea Bright in their work. It was a long, lumpy, sandy bar and, to get out to sea, they put their boats on rollers and pulled them up out of the Shrewsbury and across the dunes to the big green breakers. This saved eight miles of down-river travel.

In the same year, a man built a house in Sea Bright. However, the big northeasters in winter made him quit after a while, and he put his house on barges and floated it across to the other side of the river. That town is called Rumson and, before the ranch houses came into vogue, it was a place of beautiful estates, matched carriage horses, and Irish maids in white uniforms and puffy caps.

Still others came to Sea Bright. The Swedes made the village and they rolled their two-man dories through the surf at dawn and, if the blues were running good, the Swedes lived good. If the fish were away, the Swedes owed everybody all winter.

The village had a sand-scoured look and, in the 1880's and 1890's, big hotels were built in the main part of the village. President James A. Garfield owned a place two miles down the road, and Diamond Jim Brady and Jim Fisk had showplaces too.

Sea Bright Lawn Tennis came into vogue and a brokerage office was set up at the beach. Beautiful women in huge hats strolled the beach in foaming skirts. Rich men in sports shoes sat on camp stools and drew on black cigars and talked about the market. The village had money; it despised the rich tourists, but it took their cash.

In the 1920's Prohibition came to Sea Bright and the fishermen began to put airplane engines in their dories. They fled to sea in fog, and came back laden with scotch and rye. There were still in some of the big houses and, late at night, big trucks pulled away, loaded with liquor and cash, to pay off policemen on the way to New York.

For a time, the village died. It became sun-bleached and the fishing died off and the second generation Swedes took jobs on road construction gangs. The Axelssons remained. So did the Thompsons, the Fowlers, the Ryans, the Perotti's, the Keenans, the Bowers, and some of the colored people who used to work in the big hotels.

Recently, the Garden State Parkway was built. Suddenly, Sea Bright was only 70 minutes from Times Square, and beautiful motels began to build on sand. The Ship Ahoy, the Shore Hills, Keeler's Guest House, the Sea Bright Motel—even the old Peninsula House began to come to life. Harry's Lobster House, Fox Food Town, the Driftwood, all began to do big business.

Boats and marinas dot the river. All summer long, Ocean Avenue is choked with traffic. In the winter, the village is quiet and, on stormy nights, salt brine crackles blue in the electric wires and the slow pulse of the sea hits the sand with thunder.

It isn't exciting. But it's my town. (Copyright 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Will There Ever Be A Good Cold Vaccine?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Are there any vitamins, vaccines, or medicines to prevent ordinary colds? This question is asked frequently and the answer is no—with reservations. Many persons believe in pet remedies that keep them cold free. They are most enthusiastic so long as their luck holds out.

There was a mad rush 25 years ago for an oral cold vaccine that was touted as science's answer to the common cold. The product proved ineffective yet every year since then, one or two patients ask for refills. This small group may be the people who have had no respiratory infections for years and years because of natural immunity. At any rate, the tablets to prevent respiratory infections in the majority of users.

The strep infection that leads to rheumatic fever can be avoided by taking penicillin or a sulfonamide. During World War II, an epidemic of strep sore throat broke out at Lowry Field in Colorado, and something had to be done. Everyone was given sulfa pills at the same time of the day. The epidemic subsided promptly. In this instance, the sulfonamide worked because specific microorganisms (streptococci) were responsible for the sore throat.

The coaching staff of the Chicago Bears is sold on a combination of a multiple vitamin, an antibiotic, and Copavin as a cold preventive. It was used last fall and none of the players developed colds that were severe enough to take them out of the lineup. These men are healthy and it may take several seasons to determine whether their freedom from colds was coincidental or whether the combo deserves credit.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cert

A crusty banker reluctantly took his newly graduated son into his business, but secretly warned his assistant, "Keep your eye on that boy. Never met an Ivy League graduate yet who knew a darn thing about practical business affairs."

A fortnight later, however, he had to admit to his wife, "That boy of yours finally earned his pay today. We had a directors' meeting, and we called him in to mix the drinks."

Sally May Hipson had lived sixty long years in Kentucky before she got her first look at the Atlantic Ocean. Her little granddaughter dragged her down to the beach while the tide was rolling in, and one big wave covered her with spray.

Sally May wiped the salt spray off her lips and marveled, "I do declare! This here water's got seasoning in it!"

Pirates Punch Out 8-3 Victory Over Chicago Cubs

Haddix Posts 9th Triumph Of Campaign

Ellsworth Suffers 10th Loss; Buccos Rack Up 11 Blows

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates clubbed 10 singles and a triple off five Chicago Cubs hurlers Tuesday to punch out a 8-3 victory, their 10th over the Cubs this season.

The victory, his ninth, went to Harvey Haddix, who limited the Cubs to two doubles before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning.

Pittsburgh erupted for four runs in the seventh to hand rookie Dick Ellsworth his tenth loss. Ellsworth, who had beaten Pittsburgh twice previously this year, gave up singles to Hal Smith and Bill Mazeroski and walked Smokey Burgess to fill the bases with one out before he left the game.

Seth Morehead relieved and walked Bill Virdon to force in a run before Don Elston replaced him. Dick Groat singled for two runs and another scored on Roberto Clemente's infield out.

The Pirates also tallied off Mark Freeman in the eighth on two singles and a sacrifice. Clemente tripped with two out in the ninth and three walks by Moe Drabowsky forced in one run. Don Zimmer's error on Don Hoak's ground ball permitted two more runs.

The Cubs got one run off Haddix when Ron Santo doubled, advanced on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch. The other Cub runs came on Bob Will's double, a walk, a fielder's choice and on Frank Thomas' single off Clem Labine and Grady Hatton's pinch single off Elroy Face.

COACH Jerry Calhoun of Beall High School is still negotiating with Barrackville High School in Marion county, W. Va., for the opening game at Frostburg, Friday, Sept. 9.

The third annual "Meet The Squad Night" will be held at Beall High School Friday, Sept. 2, with cheerleaders, band twirlers and players making an appearance.

An intra-squad scrimmage will highlight the evening's program.

GRAPEVINE, a two-year-old is running these days at the Atlantic City race track and it should bring back memories of a horse by the same name who figured in Faingo's record daily double payoff 18 years ago.

Grapevine, No. 8, was coupled with Vera M., No. 3 that day and they paid off to the tune of $1,463 for each $2 double ticket.

A friend of mine always will remember the Grapevine of 1942 because he was all set to wager on it with Vera M. in the daily double and his daughter persuaded him to bet on another bagged tail.

TOMMY RICHARDS, the right-hander from Carlos and Beall High School product, is now with Mobile, Ala., and owns a 2-3 record. He has appeared in 12 games and pitched 52 innings.

Eddie Parsons, a former Fort Hill High School third baseman, is now listed as a pitcher with an 0-2 record at Des Moines, Iowa. He has pitched 32 innings in 14 games.

BY ACTUAL stall-to-stall count, 752 thoroughbreds are bedded down at Timonium, Pimlico and Bel Air but do you know that racing secretary Fred Colwell is having trouble filling the races for Timonium's nine-card program.

Seven hundred and fifty-two horses are ample, according to Bill Boniface, Baltimore Sun turf writer, but 90 per cent of the horses now in Maryland are completely worn out or sore in one leg joint or another.

"Many minor circuit nags, knocked out or raced into soreness by hard campaigns at Charles Town's race tracks have only one or two more races left in them," Boniface writes.

"Their trainers know this better than anyone else, and are awaiting spots where they will be almost sure to take down some purse money. Young can't blame them, it might be the horse's last race.

"The iceman at Timonium is doing a rushing business. He makes his rounds of the stables each morning selling crushed ice in 50-pound bags and seldom passes a barn without dropping off one or more bags.

"Why all this ice? The legs of the sore-going runners are packed in ice from one to three hours before the animal goes to the post.

"The dearth of sound horses is a condition which will exist until days of minor track racing are reduced or the producing of thoroughbreds is stepped up."

Frank Graham, in the New York Journal-American:

"Four new clubs are not going to raise the standard of play in the major leagues but are certain to lower it, for despite all new lures in the form of higher salaries, bonuses and gilded pension plan, under the present setup there aren't any more true big leaguers than there were 50 years and more ago.

"The fact is that cities about to be tapped for the majors merely represent, or so it is hoped, new fields in which to make money."

Phil Clout Cards, Capture Dapper Dan Series Opener, 12-4

Scoring eleven runs in the first three innings, the Phillies clobbered the Cardinals yesterday at Constitution Park by the score of 12-4 in the opening game of the 124-of-three series for the championship of the Dapper Dan Little League.

The Phillies actually won the game in the first inning when they jumped on Dick Chaney for five runs, coupling doubles by Mark Lindner, Jimmy Bennett and Dennis Nave, with Randy Cabbage's triple, Steve Walters' single, an infield out, base on balls and wild throw.

In the third the Phillies scored six runs and during the rally Randy Cabbage collected a pair of singles. Steve Walters got the other hit during the inning when Cardinal pitchers issued four walks and hit one batsman.

Cabbage led the Phillies at the plate with a triple and two singles in four official trips while Jimmy Bennett had a perfect day with a double and two singles to his credit.

Steve Walters, who pitched until the fourth inning, posted his eighth win against a single loss. Dick Chaney had an 8-0 record before suffering his first setback of the season.

Chaney and Kenny Green shared four of the Cards' seven safeties. Chaney blasted a homer and double.

Terry Deremer excelled at short for the winners, handling six chances without a slipup.

The second game of the series is set for Thursday at 6 p. m. at Penn Avenue Field. Score: PHILLIES 12-4, CARDINALS 4-12.

Walters, McGee (4) and Barnhart (6). Chaney, Green (3) and Sewell, Holland (5).

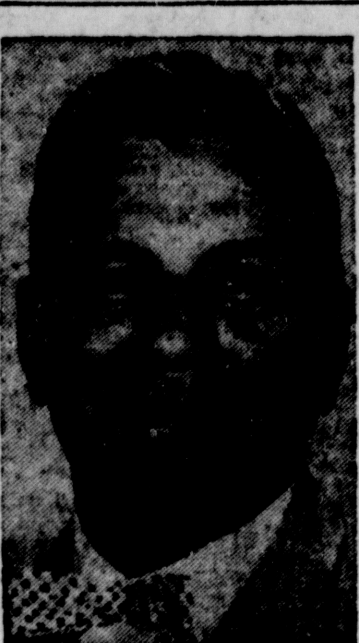

Winner — Walters, Loser — Chaney. HR — Chaney (Cardinals).

School Seeks Coach ST. ALBANS, W. Va. (UPI) — St. Albans High School is looking for a new basketball coach.

Al Nida announced he is resigning to act as area representative for an investment and savings firm.

However, Nida said he would continue to teach physical education at the school for the time being.

Chico Ruiz of the Columbia team in the Sally League already has pilfered 45 bases. He's going to get a trial with the Reds.

TO CONDUCT CLINIC — Patrick A. Tork, professor of physical education, director of the physical education general program and director of the field house at West Virginia University, will conduct a football rules clinic at Keyser High School, Wednesday, August 31, at 7:30 p. m. EDT. Mr. Tork has served as football and basketball official since 1928 and is a member of the National High School Federation and College Alliance Football Rules Committee.

Kefauver Says Norris Evaded Ring Hearings

Charges Promoter Hid Out In France

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) Tuesday accused boxing promoter James D. Norris of hiding out in Paris to avoid testifying in the Senate boxing hearings.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, said Norris is wanted for questioning on various subjects—including his alleged associations with Frankie Carbo, the convicted underworld boxing manipulator.

Norris is a former president of the International Boxing Club, whose affairs the subcommittee is exploring in its hunt for evidence that mobsters have exerted monopolistic control over professional boxing.

Kefauver described Norris as a multimillionaire who owns the New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawk hockey clubs, a racing stable and "controls some of the biggest arenas in the country."

Kefauver released a statement saying Norris has failed even to acknowledge receipt of messages sent on June 25 and last Friday requesting him to return to this country and testify in hearings tentatively scheduled for Oct. 18.

Kefauver said he has confirmed with the telephone company that the June radio message was delivered to Norris aboard the liner United States enroute to Europe, and that a later cablegram was delivered to Norris in Paris Saturday morning.

In Paris, Norris denied he came to Europe to avoid testifying.

Martin And Reds May Sue Chicago

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Billy Martin, fiery Cincinnati Red infielder, and the Cincinnati club are believed contemplating a suit against the Chicago Cubs in retaliation for a $1 million suit filed by the Cubs, the United Press International learned Tuesday.

Martin and Reds' General Manager Gabe Paul arrived here with the rest of the Cincinnati team Tuesday to open a series against the San Francisco Giants.

Martin referred all questions to Paul or his attorney.

"I can't say anything right now," said Martin. "You will have to talk to my attorney. You can get his name from Mr. Paul."

But Paul would not release the name of the attorney.

Garrett County Mother Of Six Dies Of Polio

Youngest Child Also Believed Victim

A 27-year-old Garrett County woman who was the mother of six children died Monday of polio in Shadyside Hospital, Pittsburgh, shortly after being admitted.

The victim was Mrs. Ladonna Fitzwater, wife of William Fitzwater Jr., who operates a dairy farm near Altamont.

Mrs. Fitzwater was stricken Saturday and was admitted to Garrett Memorial Hospital in Oakland. She was rushed to the hospital in Pittsburgh Monday, but died shortly afterwards of bulbar polio, according to an Oakland physician.

The youngest child of the Fitzwaters, one-year-old Michael, also is a patient in the Oakland hospital and is believed to be suffering from polio. He was admitted to the hospital August 17 and was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night.

It was reported Mrs. Fitzwater and Michael had not received any Salk inoculations, but the other children in the family had received their polio shots.

Mrs. Fitzwater was born in Terra Alta, W. Va., and was the daughter of John A. and Dessie N. (Durst) Bell, who reside in Cumberland.

Also surviving are five other children, William III, Ralph, Donna, Norma and Douglas, all at home; and two sisters, Misses Nina and Sharon Bell, both at home in Cumberland.

The body is at the Leighton Funeral Home, Oakland, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at North Glade Methodist Church by Rev. Ernest Blizzard and Rev. G. Bryan Blair. Burial will be in North Glade Cemetery.

Water Line Breaks Fixed By City Crews

Water Department crews have repaired three water line breaks in city streets which occurred in less than 24 hours yesterday and Monday.

Department officials said yesterday two breaks on Bedford Street and another on Arch Street were repaired yesterday, adding that water service was shut off only for a couple of hours.

A six-inch line in the 100 block of Bedford Street developed breaks in both the upper and lower ends of the line. The first break occurred about noon Monday as Street Department crews were placing new surfaces. The other break came in the line near Centre Street early yesterday.

In the first break, an old wood-en plug, which the department replaces as they are found, popped out shortly after officials had notified residents of the area that water would be turned off in order to replace the plug.

A stream of water shot about 50 feet into the air in a geyser-like effect until the water was shut off. The plug was replaced and service quickly was restored.

Crews worked yesterday on the break near Centre Street and service was interrupted there for over an hour. Repairs also were made to a small break in the 200 block of Arch Street.

These water line breaks occurred 12 days after a major break in the crosstown 24-inch line at the intersection of Decatur and Davidson streets flooded the area and damaged the street to the extent that a contractor will replace it.

Young Democrats Meet Tomorrow

The Young Democrats of Allegany County will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Algonquin Hotel coffee shop, according to an announcement by William Walsh, president, and William B. Orndorff, secretary.

A slate of officers will be submitted for the annual election of the organization.

LaVale Must Elect Zoning Board Member

Lancaster Declines To Seek New Term

When the voters of Election District 29 in LaVale got to the polls on November 8 they also will have the opportunity to elect a new member to the LaVale Zoning Board for a five-year term.

C. A. Lancaster, Cumberland newspaperman and the last remaining original member of the board elected in 1957, announced yesterday that he will not run for re-election to the board.

It will be recalled that Mr. Lancaster, John J. Rowan, now president of the Board of County Commissioners, and Leslie J. Clark, now attorney to the county commissioners, were elected to the LaVale Zoning Board when it was created in the summer of 1957.

Mr. Rowan resigned in December 1958 after having been elected a county commissioner. Mr. Clark remained on the zoning board into 1959 but resigned then because of the press of his duties as county attorney. Theodore P. Foote, supervisor of art education in the county public schools, first was named as Mr. Rowan's successor.

When he too resigned, Douglas Smith, a LaVale engineer, was named as the new member.

Lee C. Barnett Jr., also an attorney, succeeded Mr. Clark on the zoning board.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the County Board of Election Supervisors, reminded interested citizens of LaVale that candidates for the LaVale Zoning Board must file by September 7, or 60 days before the election. The necessary petitions should be obtained from the election board.

William K. Lewis, 12 Beverly Place, yesterday was committed to the County Jail for 15 days in default of a $25 fine imposed on a disturbance of the peace charge.

Lewis was found guilty yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court by F. Allan Weatherholt on a charge preferred by Margaret Buzzard, playground director at Centre Street School.

The charge against Lewis arose from an incident recently near the playground.

One of the youths playing ball at the playlot asked Lewis for permission to get a ball after it had gone into his yard. Lewis gave the boy permission to get the ball, but when the youth attempted to get the ball he was struck in the face by Lewis, according to court testimony.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p. m. (EST) at Winchester, Va., for James Poole, 30, of Yellow Springs, W. Va., who was found dead in his car Monday night.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said Poole had been missing since he left work Friday evening. He was found slumped in his automobile by neighbors who conducted a search after the car had been noticed parked along a secondary road off State Route 259 about five or six miles from his home.

Police said the man died of carbon monoxide poisoning. The windows of the automobile were shut and a hose from the exhaust pipe ran into the sealed-off vehicle they said.

The body is at the Giffin Funeral Home in Capon Bridge and will be taken to Winchester Thursday for graveside services.

Officials Fail To Agree In Plant Dispute

Another Meeting Set In Oakland Strike

Union and company officials could not reach an agreement yesterday during a joint meeting held in Oakland to resolve a contract dispute which closed a poultry processing plant in that community last week.

On strike are 15 drivers who belong to Local 453, Teamsters Union here, and some 125 members of Meat Cutters Local 424 of Pittsburgh, all employees of the Sterling Processing Corporation plant in Oakland.

Commissioner James A. Holden of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service which arranged yesterday's meeting, said last night that another such meeting is expected to be held in a week or two when union and company officials will again review the situation.

Charles Stutzman, business agent of the Teamsters Union, who attended yesterday's meeting said last night that union members will meet at 1 p. m. Tuesday, August 30 in the Moose Home in Oakland to discuss a counter proposal.

The strike in Oakland began at midnight Monday, August 15, after the unions terminated a contract extension.

The chief dispute when talks broke off appeared to be the timing of a six-cent wage package in a 2½-year contract.

A Teamsters Union official said the last proposal made for the unions, which called for three cents retroactive to July, and the same amount next July, was made by union negotiators who had no assurance that the memberships would accept.

Representing the Teamsters yesterday was Charles Stutzman, business agent, E. V. Bobrowica and Francis Cousins represented the meat cutters.

The company representatives included Earl Wise, Frank O'Malley and William Devaney, an attorney for the processing plant.

Gas Company, Union To Renew Negotiations

Proposals Not Accepted, Rejected

Members of Local 419, Utility Workers of America, voted unanimously last night neither to accept nor to reject new proposals of the C & A Gas Company in their labor dispute, instead deciding to continue negotiations, union officials said.

Floyd S. Elliott, member of the union's negotiating committee, said the committee met with company officials and the union's regional director to receive the proposals. The committee then submitted the plan to the 60 union members present at a meeting last night at the Allegany Labor Temple.

Union negotiators will meet again today at 1 o'clock with company officials and James Holden, federal conciliator, at the Fort Cumberland Hotel in an effort to resolve their contract differences.

The negotiations will continue in an effort to end the 23-day work cessation for the union employees who have not worked since August 1. The new company proposals are believed to be similar to a contract accepted by employees of a sister Columbia System company in Western Pennsylvania, the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia and Eastern Ohio.

Workers of Manufacturers Light and Heat Company approved a 32-month pact that calls for 22 cents an hour in wage increases. This provides for five cents immediately, six cents January 1, 1961, and 11 cents on May 1, 1962.

Union officials have termed the 23-day work stoppage a "lockout." Supervisory employees have been handling jobs ordinarily held by union members. Some additional work was encountered by the staff workers recently when a large water main burst on Decatur Street, interfering with some gas lines.

Mr. Elliott, meanwhile, filed a test case with the Maryland Department of Employment Security for unemployment benefits. The claim was turned down by a special examiner, but the union's attorney, George R. Hughes Jr., announced an appeal hearing has been scheduled on September 1 with the three-member Employment Security Board headed by Robert B. Kimble, former Allegany County state senator.

B&O Freight Blocks Five Crossings

Breakdown Causes Delay In Traffic

Five railroad crossings in downtown Cumberland were blocked temporarily yesterday when an eastbound B&O freight train broke down while passing through the city, police said.

A complaint was received at police headquarters at 5:11 p. m. notifying them that the four-unit diesel had broken down shortly after it had cleared the Harrison Street crossing.

Blocked by the freight were Harrison, Union, Baltimore, Frederick and Bedford streets.

City firemen and local ambulances were notified that the crossings were blocked. In the event of an emergency at
